Asian Higher Education Summit 22-23 June 2015

About the Summit

Asian Higher Education Summit 22~23 June 2015

- The Asian Higher Education Summit will be held on June 22~23, 2015 at the University of Hong Kong. The timing of the Summit matches that of the Summer Institute on Higher Education for Tomorrow, which will take place on June 15~26, as a development programme for aspiring leaders in higher education institutions or ministries.
- The Summit is meant to gather regional senior higher education leaders, to interact with one another, exchange ideas, share experiences, insightfully cross-fertilize, and rejuvenate their thinking amidst pressing expectations in their home jurisdictions.
- A round table discussion among 10-15 established higher education leaders. Summer Institute participants are invited as observers.

Testimonial

- ◆ “The program is adjusted according to the situation and needs without losing the core lines as per the programme aims and objectives. I particularly like the enthusiasm of the facilitators. They are all very kind and eager to share their experiences and knowledge.” -Basaruddin, Indonesia
- ◆ “It is really a very pleasant environment where people are gathering from different places with the diverse cultural background talking about their own system and experiences for the same destiny of the development of Higher Education.” -Margaret, Myanmar
- ◆ “ “We have had intriguing insights at the sessions in Higher Education Tomorrow. The institute is a good hub to foster more and more effective collaborations between the ASIAN universities.” -Orkhon, Mongolia
- ◆ “I enjoy every minutes of it and have learned a lot from the talks and discussions as well. Asian countries have a great potential in higher education development, but from the discussion, we feel that we are facing the same challenges.” -Shi Jinghuan, Facilitator, Tsinghua University, China
- ◆ “My participation at the Institute was a unique opportunity to meet new friends from the region, to renew energies on our shared aspirations towards a better education, and to become inspired by a new generation of promising higher education leaders.” - Francisco Marmolejo, Facilitator, World Bank

Testimonial

- ◆ I found it very intriguing and eye opening, particularly on understanding the different situations in various countries. Granted I work in the American system and quite familiar with the discussions that facilitators gave, it was the discussions by fellow participants that made me realize what else is happening and what difficulties others are facing. This has a tremendous significance on globalization of higher education.”
-Simon, USA
- ◆ “Hong Kong has an established higher education system, which can be used to show to those participants what is the core of the Hong Kong higher education system, namely academic freedom and internationalization.HKU is blessed by a number of academics who have experience working with ADB, World Bank and UNESCO.I hope the Summer Institute will become a permanent feature of the Faculty of Education every summer.”
-Henry, Hong Kong
- ◆ “The highlight of this Summer Institute lies in the genuine interactions between the participants and facilitators which generated knowledge exchange and stimulating discussions in great breath and depth... The diversity and freedom of academic autonomy in HKU bring new insights to my paradigm of thoughts”
-Minnie, Macau
